A STRANGE EXPERIENCE

THE UMBRIA CAUGHT IN A WATERSPOUT.

Twirled Around Like a Top—Hundreds of Tons of Water Deluge Her—The Passengers Panic Stricken—The Strange Whirlwind only Lasts a Minute.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A story is in circulation here to-day of a strange and startling experience of the steamer Umbria during her trip to this port. A strong wind had been blowing all day Thursday and the sea was very rough. The wind freshened toward night to almost a gale and the women and inexperienced voyagers slept little. Well on toward morning the ship gave a mighty plunge, then mounted the crest of a wave and shook violently as a succession of cross seas struck her. Almost immediately a tremendous wave towered high aloft against the horizon, and the next moment broke, deluging the vessel with a hundred tons of water, sweeping the decks with six feet of water the whole length of the ship.

The wave was accompanied by a whirlwind, which the passengers say fairly spun the great steamer round in a whirlpool. The unusual commotion caused many of the passengers to rush wildly for the deck, and at the same instant orders were given for all to prepare to leave the ship. The greatest excitement prevailed. Passengers were panic stricken, some of them beginning to pray and others to shriek in hysterical fear. The whirlwind ceased as quickly as it came and in a few moments the vessel was under way, plowing the waves apparently none the worse for the severe shaking and salty baptism which she had received. The hour and rapidity with which the event happened makes it difficult to account for the vessel's strange experience, but it is thought that the Umbria was caught in a small water spout generated by the storm.

No Party to a Swindle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The United States Express Company has issued peremptory orders to all agents not to receive money, tickets or lists of drawings from the Louisana Lottery Company, or in any way to assist in the transportation of lottery business.

Canadian Lumber.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 22.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding made a ruling to-day that lumber imported from Canada prior to the 13th inst., but entry of which was not completed until after that date, is entitled to the lower rate of duty prescribed for lumber in the existing tariff law. October 13 was the date fixed by the Dominion Government for the removal of the export duty on lumber.

A Refuge Harbor.

PORTLAND, Oct. 22.—Colonel Mandell, Major Handbury and Captain Symons, of the corps of United States engineers, the board appointed to re-examine the Port Orford and Minimisse project and make estimates for a harbor of refuge, have left for that place. They are instructed to largely reduce the original estimate of cost of the proposed improvement, and submit a report before the 1st of December. The first estimate was on too grand a scale, and it is expected to secure such a reduced estimate as will justify work being begun on a $150,000 appropriation.

To Store Tons of Ice.

PORTLAND, Oct. 22.—The ice manufacturers have found that the demand for ice in large quantities for shipping fish, for the use of butchers, etc., has grown beyond their capacity to furnish, and have combined and will put up an ice-house at Celilo, just above the Dalles, with a capacity of 12,000 tons. The Upper Columbia freezes every winter, and Celilo is considered the surest point on the river for gathering the ice harvest. The building will cover a tract 800 feet square, and contain 400,000 feet of lumber, a train load of which was sent forward to-day, and work will be begun at once.

The Crescent City Murderers.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—Acting Chief of police Journal and Chief Detective Malone say to-day that the work of the police in the Henessey assassination case is about finished, that the guilty parties are undoubtedly under arrest, and the evidence to substantiate this is already in the possession of the officers. There may be a few more unimportant corroborative facts to be picked up, but the police are satisfied with the evidence they have. Next Tuesday is the day fixed upon when the detectives will be ready to begin examining the fifteen men now under arrest. Four of these are charged directly with the murder, while the others are charged with being accessories both before and after the act.

THE NEW ORLEANS VENDETTA.

Over Forty Italians Arrested—Chief Hennessy's Murderer.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—The police have arrested about forty Italians whom they found congregated in a store on Burgandy street, listening to a harrangue by one of their number, charging that it was unlawful to assemble. The police assembled in force and gathered in the whole crowd. When assembled at the station, it was found that the men had just arrived from Chicago this morning, and that none of them had any money. As they could give no good reason for having come here, they were booked as dangerous and suspicious characters. The police to-night also arrested Manuel Pietre, whom they charged not only with being one of the men connected with Hennessey's assassination, but actually the man who fired the fatal shot.

The police assert that they have the case in excellent shape; that the murderers have been arrested and that there is sufficient evidence to prove that Hennessey was murdered by Matranga's gang. All other Italian prisoners except some who are regarded as important witnesses, or accessories, have been released. Damaging evidence was adduced against Macheca and [illegible] the Masters' house, who say they saw him there several times just before the murder.

Provenzano and Matranga factions concerned in the tragic events of the past few months have been bitter rivals for a long time. Provenzano has had a monopoly of the fruit unloading and such other dock work, and was prospering. Matranga, who kept a saloon, finally determined to go into the unloading business himself. He gathered about him a lot of adherents, and began operations. Soon war broke out between Provenzano and Matranga, and it finally culminated a few months ago in an attempted assassination of a lot of Provenzano's men. They were on their way to the docks before day-light in a wagon, and passing a dark alley were fired upon by concealed assassins with shotguns loaded with buckshot. Two were fatally, and others seriously wounded. Chief Hennessey soon captured the assassins, finding them as he expected, members of Matranga's gang. They were speedily convicted. Hennessey declared his intention of rooting out all of the assassins' organizations, and all other criminal associations, and as neither side is above crime he is known to have incurred the enmity of both.

LIVELY TIMES.

A Missouri Judge Opens Fire on a Libellous Editor—No Blood Spilled.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—A couple of weeks ago a sensational paper published here printed a report of certain scandalous charges against Judge G. D. Burgess, of the 18th circuit of this state. As soon as the paper reached Brookfield, Mo., where the judge was holding court, he caused warrants to be issued against Henry L. Preston and Isaac Lavien, editors, for criminal libel. They were arrested and taken to that point, and gave bail for their hearing.

Their preliminary examination took place at Brookfield yesterday. They proved that they had only republished an item from an old paper which never caused a libel suit, and in consequence they were acquitted. Judge Burgess was not in court, but was in town. Preston went to the Brookfield bank to draw money previous to returning to Kansas City. Near the door of the bank Preston and the judge met. Burgess exclaimed, "I'll teach you to vilify a man's good name!" and drawing a revolver, fired. The shot missed its mark. Officers who happened to be present, rushed up and disarmed the indignant judge. Preston and Lavien were arrested at the depot for criminally libeling prominent people of Chillicothe, Mo., and were at once taken to that point, where they gave bail.

THE BAY CITY.

Across the Continent on a Safety—The Eaton Hall's Voyage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—About two o'clock this morning fire broke out in the candle factory of Morgenthan & Co., and spread to the Pacific Mattrass Factory adjoining and four cottages in the rear. All were destroyed. The total loss is estimated at seventy-five thousand dollars. Insurance unknown.

Ernest C. Rowe, a young newspaper man of New Haven, Conn., arrived here last night. He made the trip across the continent on a safety bicycle. He was sixty-eight days making the journey.

The British ship Eaton Hall, which was supposed to have been in collison with the St. Mary, off Cape Horn, has arrived after a passage of 162 days from Newcastle, England, with a cargo of general merchandise. Capt. Lawrison's report to the Merchants' Exchange, says that the vessel met with no accident during the voyage, notwithstanding the fact that considerable rough weather was experienced, the only thing of any consequence that happened during the voyage was the drowning on July 15th last of an apprentice named Wm. C. Barnard, who was washed overboard.

AUSTRIA WANTS SPECIE.

The Finances on a Specie Basis, with Gold Standard.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—A cable received contained statements which, if true, are of the greatest import. It is said that the Austrian government has completed a scheme for putting the finances of the empire on a specie basis, and has adopted a gold standard. It is also stated that it is intended to create a gold specie reserve by a loan, and convert paper florins into gold at a fixed rate of exchange. The matter has been discussed for weeks past in European journals. The verdict of thinking men has been all along that any attempt to do such a thing at the present time would be madness. The plan would include the ridding of the Austro-Hungary bank of 70,000,000 florins, or $24,000,000 in silver, and exchanging it for gold. Of the notes of the state 212,000,000 florins would be withdrawn, the remaining 100,000,000 to be exchangeable for gold. In order to accomplish this all the gold loan would have to be raised.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Economist estimates that the amount of the loan required is $20,000,000. Where could any country, however good its credit, obtain £20,000,000 at the present time? On Friday last the entire amount of gold in the Bank of England was only £19,809,977. Everybody knows that England is trying hard to get gold. The Bank of Germany had on October 17, £25,398,000, and wants more. The Bank of France had 51,725,000 francs, but is unwilling to part with it. An attempt to raise such a loan would give rise to the most serious trouble in the world. Then, too, the attempt to dump $24,000,000 in silver on the market at present would cause the price to drop so that the Austro-Hungarian bank, although it could possibly market the silver at higher prices than it gave for it originally. Thinking men in this country refuse to believe the reports.

SIR RICHARD ON TARIFF.

RESTRICTION DENOUNCED BY THE LIBERAL LEADER.

His Speech to be a Manifesto for the Next Elections—The American Markets Worth More to Canada Than any in the World—His Meeting a Success.

Special to the TIMES.]

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—Sir Richard Cartwright delivered his first great speech for the Liberals on the trade question and the McKinley bill in Renfrew on Monday evening. Last night he spoke in Pembroke. It will be a manifesto for the approaching elections and will be published in pamphlet form. He said that when the McKinley bill was hanging in the balance, the Dominion Government handicapped the opponents of the measure by passing the Foster tariff, which increased the duties on American products. He said that the American markets were worth more to Canada than the markets of the world. At the demand of McKinley, he said, the Government abolished the duty on saw logs, notwithstanding they had said it was put on to help our mill owners. He was ready to go as far as any man in endeavoring to find new markets for Canadian products, and further than any member of the present government in reducing the tax upon the country, so as to enable the Canadian producers to compete in markets of the world. He believed in home markets, while the foreign market for Canadian people was in the States and not in the countries three thousand miles away. Speaking of the country being ruled by combines, he said that when he was finance minister he was approached by restrictionists, who offered their support on condition that he should arrange tariff so as to enable them to fleece the people, and when he told them to go to the devil they went to Sir John (laughter.) If the people wanted restriction they could vote for the Government, but if they wanted reciprocity it could be had by electing the Liberals.

The meeting was a success.

There is no probability whatever that the verdict in the Birchell case will be disturbed by the State Department. A dispatch from London, Ont., says that a petition to the Governor-General praying that the sentence be commuted to imprisonment for life, is receiving numerous signatures. This is not likely to prove of the slightest avail.

General Booth's Scheme.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Daily Telegraph says it hopes that General Booth's scheme will get a good start and meet with fair play. It adds "Carlyle preached in vain forty-five years ago, but perhaps at length the hour has come and the man." The Standard advises the public to hesitate to subscribe funds for what it calls "a practically impossible scheme."

No One Hurt.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—A duel between M. Paul Derouleede and M. Reinach, growing out of a debate in the deputies yesterday relative to the action of the government against the Boulangists, took place this morning. Pistols were used, and at the word Reinach fired, but his shot flew wide of the mark. De Roulede did not fire. Reinach's seconds then proposed that the duel be continued but De Roulede declined to accede.

THE POTATO FAMINE.

Disconsolate Scenes at Skibbereen—Some Wretched Petitioners.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Telegrams just received from Skibbereen, County Cork, state that a heart-rending scene was witnessed at a meeting to-day of the board of guardians for the poor law union of Schull. Believing that the guardians had the power of relieving distress caused by the failure of the potato crop, a crowd of forlorn farmers and laborers flocked into the little town from Mizzenhead and Crookhaven. Some of the guardians were deeply affected, but they were compelled to tell their wretched petitioners the law didn't permit the board to grant relief in the form demanded, although if any of them claimed shelter and food, room in the workhouse might be found for them. The people wept bitterly upon receiving this reply, and retired disconsolate.

NANAIMO'S ENTERPRISE.

Plans in Preparation for a $40,000 Building to be Erected Next Spring.

The latest and largest evidence of Nanaimo's enterprise is going to take the shape of a remarkably substantial and modern building costing in the neighborhood of $40,000, in which Messrs. A. R. Johnston & Cruickshanks, of Victoria, and Mr. Davies and several other gentlemen of Nanaimo are interested. This sum of money will shortly be represented by a pile of bricks and stone on the corner of Front street, and will be of considerable extent.

The plans are in the hands of Mr. John Teague, architect, of this city, and although they are only preliminary plans, they give promise of a splendid looking structure, if elegance of design, and judicious disposition of interior space count anything in forming an opinion of a prospective building.

It will have a foundation of about twenty feet in depth, and will be perfectly drained, ventilated, lighted and equipped generally. The idea, presumably, is to make it a hotel of first-class rate, a want much needed in the coal city, now that [illegible] are rapidly drawing to it.

Not forgetting the [illegible] which will be spacious and airy, parlors, bar rooms and other places, there will be over fifty well-lighted bedrooms of good size; and the whole will be heated by steam, lighted by electricity, and served to the top flat with a modern hydraulic elevator.

An interesting feature in connection with this structure is the fact that it is to be built immediately over the old Hudson Bay Company's coal mine, the foundations extending right down through the works long since closed.

Work will not be commenced probably till the spring.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE BALL

THE GREAT SOCIAL EVENT OF THE VICTORIA SEASON.

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Nelson Entertain a Large Company of the Youth and Beauty of the Province—List of the Invited Guests.

Outside the steady, drenching downpour [illegible] warmth struck the cheek as the outside disagreeableness was left there, where it belonged. Outside were frowning clouds of impenetrable darkness; inside were brightness, light and overflowing mirth. In short, the night on the outside of Government House was in every respect the strongest contrast to that reigning within. Nature was disagreeable and moody without; art had been brought into play within and had proved herself the favorite for the time being.

The annual ball given by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Nelson ranks as the social event of the season, and had it not been for that eminently unwelcome visitor at present playing so prominent and agressive a role in man's affairs, the bad weather, it would have been the most brilliant event of many seasons on this occasion. For a few hours this disagreeable circumstance was forgotten last evening and was not brought to mind till carriages were called at an early hour this morning. Government House was thrown open by its distinguished and hospitable occupants to a large list of invited guests, whose laughter and merry-making made the few hours fly musically and mirthfully past, rendering them all too short. Indeed, the event may be classed as of the extremely few social or formal balls that are carried completely through without any appearance of ennui or "boredness" being noticeable; the chief characteristic of the evening were the pleasant, joyous faces of the guests, and the evident determination to have full and free scope for enjoyment. This was essentially due to the kindly, hospitable manner of Mrs. Nelson, than whom a more charming or perfect hostess cannot well be wished. She is here, there, and seemingly everywhere, yet never in a hurry, with a cheerful smile for all, a pleasant nod or remark, not of a common-place, stereotype nature, which the position of hostess calls for. She takes an interest in the welfare of her guests, and hence, though they numbered probably two hundred last evening, it seemed more like a family party than a state ball. Mrs. Nelson was considerably assisted by His Honor in her arduous duties, and as master of ceremonies Mr. Herbert Stanton was an invaluable acquisition.

The entire building was none too large for the occasion; indeed, it is every year becoming a question of enlarging Government House, or reducing the social circle in the Province, and particularly in Victoria. The preparations were very complete, everything tending to remind one of home-like comfort, from the hall to the conservatory. The scene was a lively and brilliant one, the ladies' costumes were always tasteful, and some very elegant.

Very few ornaments were worn, but this did not detract from the gaiety and beauty of the scene. The band belonging to H.M.S Warspite rendered the dreamy waltz, the rippling polka and schottische, or the stately lancers, and the programme offered inducements to these and to many other dances, which were enjoyed till midnight, when the ball-room was forsaken for the supper-room, and a programme of a different, though equally pleasing, nature was discussed.

The delay to the Islander was the means of preventing the attendance of a large number of Mainland guests. When she did arrive, it was almost too late for the passengers to dress and get up to Government House till more than an hour after midnight. Among the heroic few who did accomplish the feat could be seen the well-built form and white head of Captain Powers, who was accompanied by Mrs. Powers.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

The [illegible] referred the purchase of Hermann island to the committee on new athletic grounds, with full power to act. It is proposed to issue $200,000 first mortgage bonds, $125,000 for the purchase of the island and $75,000 to be spent on improvements on the island.

THE TURF.

E. J. Baldwin, the well known Californian, was talking of his favorite topic, the horse, this afternoon.

"You can tell the horsemen generally," he said, "that beginning with next season we're going to inaugurate the straight-mile trotting races at Mammouth Park, and then we'll see some record breakers. Maud S. and Jay-Eye-See will not be in it.

"You will see a two-minute mile record as sure as you're born. We're going to offer big stakes and get the best horses of the country there."

"Can better time be made over a straight than over a curved track?"

"Why, there's no doubt about it. The out horse is always at a disadvantage and the pole horse always has the best of it. There being such disadvantages then at the start, it is not remarkable that frequently it is not always the best horse that wins the race, running or trotting."

This year's fall meeting at Napa, Cala., will be remembered as the year in which two stallion records were beaten. Stamboul was sent to beat the Pacific coast stallion record of 2:12¼ held by himself. The half was done in 1:06¼, and the finish in 2:11½. Freedom, also a California horse, went to the wire to beat the yearling stallion record of 2:35, and he succeeded in bringing it down to 2:29¾.

O'CONNOR'S RETURN.

O'Connor, the oarsman, who has returned to Toronto, talks enthusiastically of his visit to Australia. Speaking of his chances of winning in Australia, O'Connor said it would be next to impossible, on account of the number of tides and eddies. O'Connor will get in readiness to row with Peter Kemp, of Australia, for the championship of the world. The race will probably take place at Oakland, Cal., some time in March, and will be the first for the championship of the world ever held in this country.

GOSSIP.

Andy McDowell is the only driver that has given two mares records better than 2:15. They are Cricket, pacer, 2:10, and Margaret S., 2:12½.

It is stated that the great Sunol will accompany the Palo Alto string home to California, where she will be sent to lower her record. Palo Alto will also be driven to beat 2:12.

Telegraph operators at the English race tracks have a busy time of it when there is a big event on the card. On St. Leger Day upwards of 16,000 ordinary messages were received and dispatched from Doncaster, in addition to press telegrams which contained 100,000 words. Sixty-five operators coped with this mass of work.

At a recent sale of thoroughbred yearlings held at Doncaster, England, a filly by Hermit sold for $20,000, a filly by Scottish Chief brought $19,400, a colt by Rosicrucian $11,000, a colt by Macgregor $12,000. The prices realized for the youngsters averaged from $5000 upward. Fifty yearlings disposed of in one string for $150,305, and in another string of fifty $96,775 was realized for the lot, which was the largest sum ever realized in one day at any previous Doncaster sale.

D. D. Withers says he believes the mile record of 1:35½, made by Salvator, can be beaten three seconds on the same straight course next year. The track was not in good condition when Salvator ran.

Pierre Lorillard intends to engage in breeding thoroughbreds for racing on a more extensive plan than ever before. He will soon have at least one hundred and fifty first-class brood mares on his great farm at Johnstown, N. J.

The crack filly Lady Washington, winner of four 2-year-old stakes in the west this year, is in a dying condition, from the effects of a kick in the stomach by another horse recently. Scoggan Bros. valued her at $10,000.

A. F. Copeland, the Manhattan athlete, having been charged with professionalism, comes out in the New York papers with a defiance to his accusers to prove their allegations.

SKATING.

Joseph Donohue, the champion ice skater, has gone to Copenhagen. He will carry the Manhattan Athletic club colors in his contests in Europe. He will skate in Holland, France, Germany, Austria, England and Norway. In the latter country he will spend most of the winter.

WILL LOWER THE RECORD.

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 22.—A change came over the spirit of of C. H. Nelson's dream after he read that Stamboul had gone at Napa, Cal., a mile in 2:11¼, coming within a quarter second of equalling Nelson's record, and instead of leaving for home at Waterville, Me., as he intended, he arranged to go to the Cambridge City meeting, where Nelson will try to lower his record Tuesday. Nelson is on edge, and his owner is confident that he can drive him in 2:10 if the track and weather are favorable.

Arrived.

Bass XXXX Ale (Lamb's Wool) at the Occidental Hotel bar.

Beautiful Women.

The magical effects of Wisdom's Robertine as a beautifer and preserver of the complexion have been attested by thousands of leading ladies of society and the stage. It is the only article ever discovered which gives a natural and beautiful tint to the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all roughness of the face and arms, leaving the skin soft, smooth and velvety. All remarks on its delightfuly cooling and refreshing properties, a distinction not found in any other similar article known. D. E. Campbell, agent.

A Warning.

MR. EDITOR.—It is a well-known fact that the majority of people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance, involving [illegible] ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seven-tenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath; dull, oppressive headache; offensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes; a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. These are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy. Delays are proverbially dangerous, and in the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers, it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. Sold by all dealers of [illegible] post free on receipt of price 50c. for small or $1 for large size bottles by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont. daw

NO GOVERNMENT CANDIDATE.

Thus far no supporter of the Government has announced himself as a candidate in Westminster District. Mr. LADNER is an Independent candidate, Capt. THOMSON is a Mainland Rights candidate, and Mr. C. B. SWOND is an Independent. The Government has been unable to procure a candidate to carry its standard, and in all probability it will not challenge defeat by a square contest with the Opposition. When a constituency, vacant through the resignation of the leader of the Government, declines to support a candidate who supports that Government, there is no ground for disputing the inevitable conclusion that the policy of the powers that be is absolutely without a following in the district. Any candidate who proclaims himself a friend of the Government in Westminster would be annihilated. What inference does the Colonist draw from this remarkable state of public opinion among the Premier's late constituents?

DR. GRANT ON CANADA.

Rev. Principal GRANT, of Queen's College, Kingston, spoke last week at a meeting of the National Club, Toronto, on "Our National Position and Aims." His lecture is epitomized in the Globe as follows:

Dr. Grant defined our position as something more than a colony and something less than a nation. We had not colonial dependence, nor had we the national power to make war and frame treaties. Our actual position is veiled by the kindly courtesy of the mother country, it being now the custom to associate a Canadian with the British ambassador when treating with other nations of matters affecting Canadian interests. Under such circumstances men could not avoid speculation regarding our future. What he sought was ground upon which men of different views could stand, and he was confident that it could be found. Whether unionists or separationists, Canadians must be united and strong. Admittedly this platform was not broad enough for the annexationist, but that did not much matter, as there was less thought now of annexation than at any time within 40 years. It was being absorbed by the growing sentiment of Canadian nationality, and he assured them that they could depend upon it that there was no part of the Dominion where a sturdier Canadian sentiment was growing than down by the Atlantic Ocean.

The first thing they needed was a right attitude toward one another, and in this line, cordial co-operation between English and French Canadians was our great necessity. These relations must be based on justice. It was hopeless to turn Protestants back to Romanism, and it was just as hopeless to convert a Roman Catholic population to any of the existing Protestant churches. Proselytism would only detach individuals, hinder internal movements and aid reaction. Canadians sadly needed a Tolstoi or a Cable to picture the French Canadian to them. No one could sail up the St. Lawrence from Quebec without seeing that there was along its banks a Christian civilization unlike our own, and yet in some respects altogether beautiful. It was Acadia with a steamboat and rail car. There ought to be no difficulty in fraternising with such a race, but now that the Jesuit had come they would look in vain for the peace he hoped for for the next few years. Quebec must not be allowed, said Dr. Grant, to draw the $400,000 for the Jesuits from the Dominion treasury. He could take no part in the Equal Rights agitation because he had no faith in the veto power. Our constitution was a federal one, and each Province must be supreme within certain limitations. He showed that the United States got along without the veto, and said that the minority in Quebec should trust not to constitutional buckram but to a cordial understanding with a courteous and kindly majority. If Quebec were given a free hand it would in time abolish the Jesuits, the tithing system and much more. Any interference from outside would but aid reaction.

His policy for present action would be to send to Parliament independent men, who would not attend any party caucus, and in the search for them the old motto, one volunteer is worth two pressed men, should be vigorously reversed. He would disenfranchise all who failed to vote. Dealing with Canada's relation to other countries, he believed that her work is to heal the schism between Britain and the United States, but we could do nothing if we bartered honor for immediate gain. He believed that a limited reciprocity would be greatly to our advantage in free trade with the States and discrimination against Britain. Speaking of the McKinley bill, he did not believe that it would be repealed in a hurry, and thought that the remedy was enlarged trade with Britain. He did not see why we should not ask Britain to discriminate in our favor against all nations refusing us reasonable reciprocity. To retaliate on the Americans would be ridiculous.

A RESTRICTIONIST.

The policy of the senior member for Vancouver, barring some minor matters, seems to be restrictive and insular from whatever point of view it is contemplated. He is a rank National Policyist, and in respect to ways and means for local development, he cannot get outside of Vancouver. Mr. COTTON has taken a prejudice to artesian water. We do not wish to be understood that artesian water is our fad, but holding as we do that the reclamation of the waste lands of the interior is worthy of serious consideration, we cannot agree with the News that the Government is not justified in a considerable expenditure in pushing experiments in this direction. It seems to us that the News' attitude in the matter is indefensible. If the well-boring experiments which we advocate were of an extraordinarily costly character, and if it were also true that artesian water had proved unprofitable investments in the United States, we could quite understand our contemporary's attitude. As things stand, however, we are bound to dissent from it. Importing much that we eat, the News does not propose that any money shall be expended to ascertain whether we can be made self supporting. If the News does not think it worth the while to attempt the reclamation of our wild lands let it then advocate a policy by which we can import wheat for our mills free of duty. A policy favoring a high protective tariff combined with one which is opposed to local development, or at least an attempt in that direction, is not a policy which will meet the approval of the people of this Province. Ours is a peculiar situation. Hemmed in by a parallel wall of protection, our natural resources cannot be wholly developed, nor can we live as cheaply as we ought. Our only resource against a situation of this kind is the development of latent internal resources. Exporting at a loss and importing at a loss, our manifest destiny is bankruptcy unless we can at least manage to raise what we eat. Besides, the effect of making our arid lands fertile would be to increase our population and augment our wealth. The man who is not prepared to spend money in an effort to ascertain whether the Province can be made self supporting or not is behind the times.

"THE LUSITANIA IMBROGLIO."

The San Francisco Call does not take much stock in the pretensions of Portugal to the exclusive monopoly of the Zambesi. Says the Call:

Three or four centuries ago Portugal was a maritime power of some pretensions, and as such, it fitted out expeditions which effected landings on various points on the coast of Africa. Wherever a Portuguese landed, the imprint of his foot annexed the country; he set up a flagstaff and blew a bugle blast, and, presto, the native dominion vanished, and the Portuguese fort and barracoon reigned in its stead. Presently other nations passed that way, followed the example, and so in the fullness of time, the English and Germans, with one eye fixed on the enlightenment of the heathen, and the other set on the opening of a market for hardware and cotton prints, penetrated the Dark Continent by various channels, and came in contact with the fort and barracoon above mentioned. Against this intrusion, Portugal, strong in her acquired rights, protested lustily. At one place the protest took the shape of a formal notification to an English steamer that the river Zambesi, which is about as large as the Mississippi, is not open to navigation; at another the Portuguese fired upon the English trespassers and forced them to retire.

All this might have occurred through indiscreet zeal; but when the facts were reported at Lisbon, the action of the Portuguese people imparted national significance to the incident. At first it was proposed to send the British ambassador his passports and throw down the gauntlet to England. When it became apparent that Portugal could not well fight Great Britain, it was then resolved to place an embargo on trade with the English. This step the people of Lisbon felt sure would bring the haughty marauder to his knees. They did not stop to reckon that England takes four-fifths of Portugal's exports, and that the quantity of British goods consumed by Portugal is so small that the total extinction of the trade would involve no disturbance at Birmingham or Manchester. What the Portuguese wanted was to strike a blow at the trespasser, and they cared not whether the blow would hit them worse than him. Statesman and journalist vied with each other in calling upon Lusitania to give proof that her ancient spirit still lived.

The story reads like a scene from an opera bouffe. Portugal goes into paroxysms of rage because territory to which she never had any valid title bids fair to be entered by races which will establish commerce and order therein. And to wreak her vengeance on these disturbers of her ancient solitary reign, she proposes to cut off the trade which makes it profitable to make wine, to grow the cork tree, and to mine the copper pyrites in her own dominions. Meanwhile, the agitation caused by the new controversy has roused the Portuguese to discuss the why and wherefore of their monarchy, and it is possible that their little mother country may improve the occasion by following the example of its great Brazilian colony, and amend the constitution by abolishing the throne. In these European countries it is never possible to reckon what results may follow a political quarrel.

TROUBLOUS TIMES AHEAD.

According to the New York Tribune, history teaches that the closing years of by-gone centuries have been rendered memorable by a more than usual amount of the sorrows, troubles and ills to which mankind is heir. Nor does the final decade of the nineteenth century seem destined to prove an exception to the rule. Famine is imminent, and there is a promise of famine in Ireland. In Italy, starvation is depopulating whole districts, and from every quarter of the globe comes stories of ruined crops, and devastated homes. In France the phylloxera has at last secured a foothold, and there will be a dearth of champagne, as the vineyards must be replanted with new vines. In Austria, there is drought which is killing off stock, and in Switzerland and in southern Germany destructive inundations are the order of the day. There is wreck and ruin in whatever direction you gaze, and it would appear that before the nineteenth century closes there will be social and political upheavals no less destructive of existing institutions than the abnormal ebullitions of Nature are destructive of life and property. In Russia there is Nihilism, in Germany there is Socialism, and men are not scarce who prophesy political and social tribulation for England. There is disaffection in the United States, and, as in Europe, there is no sign of abatement. It may be a coincidence merely that times should be troublous as the end of a century draws nigh, but it is a curious one, to say the least, and what is more curious still, at this juncture it seems to be the universal opinion that an explosion must first ensue before the diverse interests which brought it about will consent to adopt a line of policy mutually beneficial.

GERMAN SOCIALISM.

It appears that the relaxation of the law against Socialists, or rather the fact of its being permitted to lapse, was not owing to the Emperor WILLIAM, but to the action of the Reichstag. WILLIAM desired to see the law continued, but the Imperial Parliament was not willing and the Emperor gracefully submitted to what he could not help. It is said, however, that Socialism in Germany is not such a dreadful thing after all. In England it would be called the Radical wing of the Liberal party. The hatred of a military armament is the prime cause of socialism in Germany. Remove that and it appears that Germany would be a contented nation, at least. Imperialism would not be in danger. This being the case we can quite understand why the Emperor should favor European disarmament.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A further illustration has been given of the changes that will be brought about by the use of smokeless powder in war. The new ammunition made for the Austrian army was used for the first time recently in Hungary. The effect is said to have been bewildering. Heavy firing went on for more than four hours without the faintest trace of smoke. The booming of heavy guns and the rattle of artillery could be heard; but the air was absolutely clear. It took a long time to discover the position of a battery; while it was almost impossible to find out where infantry under cover were firing from. In real warfare, therefore, a whole brigade may be destroyed without knowing where the hail of shot and shell comes from. It only remains for men of science to invent an invisible uniform, and the art of war will be reduced to perfection.

In 1888, thirteen per cent. of all the men married in Pennsylvania married women older than themselves. Eighty per cent. married them younger than themselves, and the remaining seven per cent. took wives their own ages. The average age of the men was twenty-seven years, and the women twenty-three years. More men are married at twenty-three, and more women at twenty-one. This seems the favorite time. A woman of fifty-nine married a man of thirty-one, and a girl of twenty-three took an old man of seventy-four. The youngest couple who ventured into matrimony was a boy of seventeen and a girl of fifteen. One man of fifty-four married a girl of eighteen. His age was just three times hers; and a man of forty-eight took a girl of seventeen. Where the men are older, the difference in ages varies, but where the women are older, it rarely exceeds five years. Two boys of sixteen were married, and two gray-beards of eighty tried the same thing, probably not for the first time. Of fourteen thousand seven hundred and twenty-six women married, whose ages were given, four thousand and sixty-five, or 27.5 per cent. were less than twenty years old.

EVIL COMMUNICATIONS.

How They Ruined the Sweet Disposition of a Bright Little Girl.

A remarkable illustration of the fact that evil communications corrupt good manners has recently been borne in upon me, writes the Chicago Journal side-walk stroller. For the last four or five months I have been on terms of intimate friendship with a very attractive young woman, who is nearly two years old. She only uses a few words, but she uses them frequently, and she adds about twenty words a day to her vocabulary. For the first two months of our acquaintance I never knew her to cry or make a loud noise, although she was teething, and—for part of the time—suffering from whooping cough. When she got angry, instead of yelling, she just put her thumb in her mouth and took it over along with her into the corner, where she contemplated the carpet or the ceiling until her wrath had subsided. Upon such occasions she had to do without whatever she wanted. But a change came over the spirit of the scene. One day her cousin, a boy aged four years, was brought up from the country to spend the winter with little Julia's mother. He is one of the boys who, when he sees any thing, takes it, and when he doesn't see it, asks for it, and when he doesn't get it, just hollers like all the sea-lions, bears and tigers in Lincoln Park. He is a howler from Howlersville, and invariably gets whatever he wants in double-quick time. He has a buzz-saw voice, and he makes the most of it. When he yells he drowns the sound of the cable-car, which runs before the dining-room window and he is yelling from sunrise to sunset. Julia was much struck with the incomparable efficiency of her cousin's methods of transacting business, and the day after his arrival entered into partnership, and adopted his system in full. Julia never goes to the corner now when she is angry—with or without her thumb. She just catches her doll by the leg and bangs its head against the glass of the book-case, and howls until the saw-dust begins to flow. She stamps both feet and bangs around every thing she can lay hold of on the table. During all her waking hours she and her cousin are fighting like demons. The house is uninhabitable, and soon the whole block will be vacant. Julia, probably, has had her temper spoiled for life. And all this because two mothers—who are among the best women in the world—have no more idea of how to educate children than they have of the integral calculus. Yet they are supposed to be doing their duty to society by raising two more torments for the human race.

REAL ROMAN PUNCH.

How a Drink Made Exclusively for the Pope Became General.

The history of ponche a la romaine is curious, says the American Analyst. It had been the summer refreshment of successive Popes for over eighty years, and their chefs were threatened with all kinds of horrors and punishments if they ever divulged the secret of its preparation. When Napoleon invaded Italy in 1796 this terrible interdict was broken through. The son of Pius VI.'s chief confectioner, by name Molas, as soon as he found the French were conquerors, ran away from his father and united his fortunes with them.

This young man became the favorite servant of the Empress Josephine, and after her death became cook to the Russian Prince Lieven, whom he accompanied to London when that Prince was appointed Ambassador to the court of St. James. This Russian first made this Papal beverage in London by introducing it at the Prince's table. The Prince regent asked for the receipt and permitted copies to be given to a select few of his friends, and by degrees it became better known, and is now well known all over the world.

The original vatican recipe is: "Prepare a very rich pineapple or sherbet; have it a little tart with lemon juice, taking the greatest care that none of the zest or oil from the yellow rind or the bitterness from the white underlying pith be allowed to enter into the composition of this sherbet. In order to be certain of this it is better, first, to grate off the yellow rind from the lemons, then to carefully remove all the white pith, and, 'to make assurance doubly sure,' wash the skinned fruit in clear water; after which press out the juice free from the rind of the fruit; strain the juice so as to remove all the seeds or pips from it; then add to it the pineapple mixture. It must be then very well frozen. This sherbet, being very rich, will not freeze hard, but will be a semi-ice. Just before the punch is to be served add and work into it for every quart of the ice one gill of Jamaica; and for every two quarts one pint of the best champagne. Never use the wine from damaged bottles or leaky corks, as it will be sure to deprave and perhaps entirely spoil your punch. After you have well incorporated these liquors add cream or meringue mixture."

Mlle. Rhea arrived in New York from France last week. She will make a tour of the United States in her successful drama, "Josephine, Empress of the French," which was produced in this city last spring.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

This Time in Tacoma.

Three small boys escape from an iron barred prison, and the jail door is fastened securely after ye small boys make godd their flight. Then mighty men of law set to work to recapture the small boys aforesaid, but man's great brain is not equal to the quick thought of youthful brains. While the great men were searching the city highways, scanning with eagle eye the face of every passing boy, the sought ones were speeding far [illegible] on which they had taken surreptitous passage on Monday.

The captain permitted them to disembark at Port Townsend seeing that they were not furnished with the pasteboard qualifying them to a saloon or even steerage passage. Here they stayed over for that other favorite vessel the City of Kingston. The Caffire boys never travel on second rate steamboats. Tacoma was reached and there the travellers are sojourning temporarily. It is possible the climate may not agree with them there, and that they may cast in their lot once more with the rising city of Seattle.

Meanwhile the law officers here are wondering if the recent heavy rains have been injurious to the sight; and the walls of the reformatory (not the outer walls) that once rang with youthful voices, are now silent, dismally echoing the slightest footfall.

VICTORIA WEST BAZAAR.

The Sale of Work a Great Success—The New Church Assured.

In spite of the incessant downpour of rain yesterday afternoon and evening, the first sale of work by the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, Victoria West, was in every respect a gratifying success. The financial result is expected to net upwards of $200 towards the building of the new church, which is expected to be soon erected. One of the most interesting and encouraging features of this first effort on the part of the few earnest ladies having it in charge, was the practical and kindly interest shown by the ladies aid societies of the congregations of the First church and St. Andrews, who made valuable contributions of work, besides contributions from individual members. The large number of ladies and gentlemen who braved the terrible storm, and so liberally patronized the sale was exceeding encouraging. The results so far of this effort of Presbyterian church extension is also very encouraging. In the early part of summer a beautiful and central site was secured at a cost of $500. This amount is more than provided by local subscriptions, and subscriptions from friends, and more is expected. An application for a loan from the Church and Manse Building Fund to the amount of $500, has been granted. It is therefore confidently expected that before early spring a modest but comfortable church will be erected, suitable to meet the wants of the community for some years to come. Meanwhile regular services are held in the new hall every Sabbath afternoon and an interesting Sabbath School work is carried on.

AN UNCONSCIOUS SPY.

How a Woman's Kindness Nearly Led to Her Death.

During the late civil war Mrs. Wheeler, the Eugene healer, served as a nurse in the Union service. She had many thrilling experiences and among them the Eugene (Ore.) Journal has heard of the following: She was present at the battle of Spottsylvania. At the commencement of the battle a Union officer rode up to her and handed her a package of papers with the request that she should keep them safe until the battle was over, and then, if he (the officer) should not live to call for them, to deliver the package at headquarters.

In the course of the fight a flank was turned and Mrs. Wheeler and the rest of the hospital nurses captured by the rebels. Upon searching her person of course the papers were found and proved to be the work of a Union spy, who had been inside the rebel lines. She was at once arraigned before a court-martial composed of rebel officers, and notwithstanding her statement of how she came by the papers and repeated protestations of innocence, she was formally convicted of being a spy and sentenced to be hanged at sunrise the next morning. She was then taken by a guard of three soldiers and confined in a small guard house, which had but one small aperture admitting light and air, and through the aperture she saw the erection of the gallows on which she was to perish. What a grim perspective!

Inside the guard house there was nothing but the bare floor of earth and two dry-goods boxes standing against a wall; no chair, no bed.

That night one of the guards entered the guard house with a piece of corn bread and a tin cup of water for her supper.

Mrs. Wheeler spoke.

The guard stopped.

He then retired and locked the door upon her again. Later on in the night she heard a voice at the aperture say: "Move the small box!" She moved the box and discovered an aperture, which proved to be a tunnel. Through this tunnel she worked her way on her hands and knees for about one-fourth of a mile, when she emerged from its mouth and found a man and two saddled horses standing there.

Mrs. Wheeler mounted one horse, and the man, who was disguised, the other. For six miles they rode on in darkness without speaking, but at the end of that time the man spoke and said: "You are now safe in the Union lines; ride on," and the man disappeared in the darkness like a shadow.

Mrs. Wheeler rode on until she came across a picket, who took her to General Heintzelman's headquarters.

Some time ago, while taking a little outing at Anderson's, on the McKenzie river, Mrs. Wheeler and her preserver met and recognized each other after a lapse of twenty-six years. Her preserver's name is well known—Dr. B. F. Russell, now postmaster at Thurston. He was one of the three guards. He was the disguised horseman.

The C. P. R. is building a siding to W. J. McKay's iron mines at Cherry Creek.

A TALK FOR BUSINESS MEN.

Great Importance.

In the rush and worry of business many men are apt to neglect the fact that they are injuring their eyes and that they cannot enjoy life or transact business to advantage if they do not have good eyesight. Such neglect may cause years of misery, whereas if proper attention is given the eyes as soon [illegible] avoid all chance of trouble by taking good care of the eyes. A first rate opportunity is offered by the presence here of Mr. F. D. Seward, the celebrated New York optician, who is daily supplying dozens of Victoria people with his matchless glasses, in the newest and best of frames, and his skill in fitting these glasses so as to correct every defect or weakness of vision is marvellous.

He is highly endorsed by oculists, physicians and prominent people everywhere, and can easily prove to any who may doubt that he is master of his profession.

He also makes a specialty of supplying fine artificial eyes, carefully matched with the real one.

Mr. Seward will be here but a short time, hence an early call should be made upon him at Room No. 8, over Cochrane & Munn's Palace drug store, corner of Douglas and Yates street.

The Queen Pays All Expenses.

The Queen's last "Free Trip to Europe" having excited such universal interest, the publishers of that popular magazine offer another and $200 extra for expenses, to the person sending the largest list of English words constructed from letters contained in the words "British North America." Additional prizes, consisting of Silver Tea Sets, China Dinner Sets, Gold Watches, French Music Boxes, Portiere Curtains, Silk Dresses, Mantel Clocks, and many other useful and valuable articles will also be awarded in order of merit. A special prize of a Seal Skin Jacket to the lady, and a handsome Shetland Pony to the girl or boy (delivered free in Canada or United States), sending largest lists. Everyone sending a list of not less than twenty words will receive a present. Send four 3c. stamps for complete rules, illustrated catalogue of prizes, and sample number of the Queen.

A Taste of Luxury Once a Year.

A hoary-headed old tramp, rich with the experience of years, reaped a rich harvest on election day. Leaning heavily upon his staff, he would approach a polling place. An embassy would hurry forward to receive him. He would remark that his old limbs were chilled, and he would warm up a bit before casting his vote. Borne into a saloon he would then be treated to the warmest and best potions in the house. By and by he would say: "What district is this?" and being answered would exclaim: "Ah, I am in such a district," and then march slowly away to work other places in the same manner.

Cotton Stalk Fiber.

It is said to have been demonstrated that the cotton stalk, which has hitherto been regarded as waste, contains valuable fiber. A lot of the stalks were recently sent from Arkansas to a factory in New York to be operated on in the same manner as flax and hemp. There were returned about twenty different grades of fibrous material, from coarse strands of the stalk to the glossy fiber as soft as silk. Persons are now engaged in perfecting a machine that will spin the material. The fiber is sufficiently strong to make the best of bagging, as well as cloth as fine as linen.

Robert Collyer as a Book-Buyer.

A bit from the genial little address which Robert Collyer made at the opening of the Richard Sugden library, at Spencer, Mass.: "When I came to this new world and had not heard as yet of that library among the green lands, but must have books on any terms, and the terms were hard and the good wife watching not the dollars, but the very cents, because they must all be saved to furnish the little house, I can well remember how I bought a book one day for half a dollar, far too big to smuggle into the cottage, and hid it in the bushes, watched my chances the next day, and got it in all safe and sound; and some days after, when she caught me reading, and said: 'Where did you get that book, my dear?' I answered: 'Why, I have had it for some time,' and then she only said: 'Indeed!' for she was patient with me and good; and then, it was in what somebody calls our treacle moon."

A Modest Illinois Man.

The most modest witness on record gave testimony in a Faunce murder trial at Decatur, Ill. On being asked: "What do you mean by veracity?" he blushingly replied: "There are ladies present and I don't like to say."

A Household Angel.

For a good, every-day household angel give us the woman who laughs. Her biscuits may not be just right, and she may occasionally burn her bread and forget to replace dislocated buttons, but for solid comfort all day and every day she is a very paragon. Home is not a battlefield nor life an unending row. The trick of always seeing the bright side, or, if the matter has no bright side, of shining up the dark one, is a very important faculty, one of the things which no woman should be without. We are not all born with the sunshine in our hearts, as the Irish prettily term it, but we can cultivate a cheerful sense of humor if we only try.

Cure for Drunkenness.

A half-ounce of ground quassia steeped in a pint of vinegar is recommended highly as a cure for drunkenness. A teaspoonful in a little water should be taken every time the liquor taste is felt. It satisfies the craving and produces a feeling of stimulation and strength.

MR. GLADSTONE'S SPEECH

AT EDINBURGH ON THE QUESTION OF HOME RULE.

The Marvellous Old Man Forcible and Eloquent as Ever—Severe Criticism of the Irish Land Policy of Absenteeism and Misrule.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 21.—Mr. Gladstone [illegible] campaign to-day in the Corn Exchange in this city. There was a tremendous crush of people, thousands of disappointed persons were left outside, to return home or listen to speakers of lesser note who addressed the overflow of the meeting in the open air. The audience in the hall numbered about a thousand. Gladstone was enthusiastically greeted on his appearance. He was in excellent health, and his voice was clear and strong. He spoke without visible sign of fatigue.

On opening his address he remarked that the problem which continued to eclipse all others and to demand the almost undivided attention of those who strive to promote the well-being of the nation, was the Irish problem. The country had come to recognize the fact that this question must be settled before any other question could be dealt with. It was one which affected the health and vitality of the state, so intimately, that in truth no other question could be properly considered while this remained in abeyance. The present rulers had hoodwinked and deluded the constituencies before election by pledging themselves not to rely upon brute force in the government of Ireland. They had promised to provide an effective system of local self government for that part of the kingdom. They had put themselves on record as opposed to any advances from the British treasury for the purpose of buying estates from landlords in Ireland. How had these pledges, on which the people had granted them the reins of government, been adhered to in the actual history of their administration? The very first important measure proposed by the present government on its accession to power was a measure for the government of the Irish people by coercion. This had been the favorite bantling of the Tory fathers. True, a local government bill had been brought in, but it was a feeble offspring, poorly nourished, and so badly neglected that it was rapidly dwindling into nothingness. As to their third pledge, it had apparently been wholly forgotten, for in the proposal pending before parliament in regard to the expropriation of Irish estates, there was a provision by which £40,000,000 of money, drawn from the British people by taxation, was to pass into the pockets of holders of land in Ireland.

Mr. Gladstone proceeded to discuss the provisions of the land purchase bill, and subjected the measure to a severe criticism, in which his well-known skill in financial analysis was exhibited so strikingly as to elicit round after round of applause from the audience. Recurring to the subject of coercive methods of government, he remarked that the Conservatives took credit upon themselves for setting Ireland right by means of a firm and resolute government, but so poorly had they earned the right to make such a boast that it might truly be said that, defective though the law was, the administration of it was worse than the law itself. Indeed, so deplorable was the state to which affairs had been brought, that he would not hesitate to declare the Irish people ought to hate the law, though he would not say that they ought to break it. He would not sanction lawlessness, even though the Irish people had constantly before them an eminently bad example of lawlessness in quarters which should be the fountain head of legality, for the government of Ireland was itself a perfect pattern of unlawfulness, and its methods were such as could not fail to provoke among the people feelings of justifiable resentment. It was hardly necessary to mention the particular circumstances of these illegal methods, for such instances had lately been conspicuously impressed upon the public mind. It was grossly illegal to close the court room against the people of Tipperary. One of the rights of every British subject was that, if tried, he should be tried openly and in public view. The appointment of Mr. Shannon as one of the trial magistrates to sit in judgment upon Dillon, O'Brien and other accused Nationalists, was, while perhaps not technically illegal, a gross scandal, not merely because he had been previously called upon to act as an executive officer in dealing with the people now brought before him in his judicial capacity, but also because in the case of Mr. Dillon, particularly, there was a personal quarrel between the men which it was only fair to assume must create a bias in the mind of the magistrate.

In dwelling upon the action of the police, in attacking respectable and peaceable citizens and visitors with batons, Gladstone remarked that after such misconduct on the part of the police at Mitchelstown, Tipperary and elsewhere, it would be expecting impossibilities to look for a maintenance of popular respect for the constabulary or their administration of the law.

Further than this the systematic brutality of the police was crowned by the insult of chronic absenteeism on the part of the responsible officials. Mr. Balfour seemed to feel that it was no part of the business of the minister for Ireland to reside for any length of time in the country whose needs and demands he was supposed to be familiar with. It was absenteeism that formed one of the most significant signs of the lowest degradation reached by Ireland in the last century, and this practice had now been made a constant habit of the chief secretary, who had fairly flaunted his absence in the face of the people. What was the condition of the country as a result of such brutality and neglect? The government had the audacity to boast that Ireland had grown peaceable under its administration, yet it kept six-fold more armed policemen in Ireland than the whole force in England and Scotland. The British people were forced to pay £1,600,000 annually to support the police in Ireland for the purpose of assisting the landlords to collect their rents. At least, this was apparently the chief function of the constabulary. The English and Scotch landlords who maintained fair and equitable relations with their tenants did not ask the aid of the police in collecting their rents. The Irish landlords, on the other hand, [illegible] more than those of Irish landlords, thanks to the merciless severity of the land system, backed by the batons and rifles of the police. Meanwhile, what had become of the promises for Irish local self-government?

Gladstone challenged the government to grant a general election, and asserted with confidence that should an appeal to the country be allowed the result would prove that the people had been [illegible] by the actions of the present [illegible] approval of the experiment of home rule. With this great question entered on terms honorable alike to England and Ireland, the last fortress of bigotry and oppression would succumb to the attack of liberal principles. Justice to Ireland would rid the empire of an intolerable nuisance and deep disgrace, and would guide with a brighter glow than any former period the closing years of Victoria's glorious reign.

Mr. Gladstone's address was frequently interrupted with applause, and its close was followed by long continued cheering. After a brief rest, Gladstone and his wife and a few intimate friends attended the concert of Mme. Patti. A dense crowd gathered outside the building, and wildly cheered the ex-premier as he entered. His appearance in the hall was the signal for another outburst of enthusiasm.

PRESS COMMENT.

LONDON, Oct., 21.—The Chronicle ranks Gladstone's speech at Edinburgh as among his finest oratorical efforts, and says his scathing exposure of the coercive regime will tell upon the ministerial position.

The Telegraph says that even the hackneyed nature of the subject failed to render the speech dull.

The Times says that nothing duller or more threadbare could be conceived.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

SHOULD BE STOPPED.

If Gamblers are Brought up a Law Will be Found to Prosecute.

One of the drunks that appeared before the police magistrate this morning, either for spite or without thinking, gave his honor to understand that there [illegible] a certain saloon [illegible]. The game played, he said, was poker, and so his honor questioned Supt. Sheppard as to whether he knew anything about the games. The Superintendent answered that a conviction could not be got under the present statute, but his honor answered that if the gamblers were arrested he would find a law under which they could be convicted. Gambling, he said, should be put a stop to in this city.

Will Get Caught.

The newspaper thief has made his appearance over James Bay. Simcoe street seems to be his favorite place of getting the news at other people's expense.

A Little Starr-Light.

News comes from Toronto that the Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Starr became the happy parents of a little daughter on October 9th.

Dancing and Music.

R. McKenzie Munro, the Professor of Scottish music and dancing, will return to Victoria in the course of two weeks and open classes for instruction in dancing and bag-pipe music.

A Severe Shock.

Mr. R. Caselton, who was knocked down and badly hurt by a furiously driven buggy on Monday evening, rested badly last night, he being unable to sleep. Beside his hurts he has sustained a severe shock to his system. It is hoped by his friends that a more favorable turn will be taken soon. No trace of who the careless driver was can be discovered yet.

Sale of Work.

The ladies of St. John's church are arranging a bazaar to be held during the first week in December.

The ladies of Victoria West are arranging for a sale of work and social tea to be held in the mission room, Victoria West, to-morrow evening. The proceeds are to go towards the Church of England building fund.

Perseverance Lodge.

The brothers of Perseverance Lodge, No. 1, I.O.G.T. were entertained by the sisters of the lodge last evening. A short musical programme was rendered, after which a bountiful supply of refreshments was served. Rice and chop sticks were handed the brothers before the more delicate victuals, but as they handled the former articles very clumsily the ladies did not keep them in suspense long before bringing out the delicacies.

Waiting For an Answer.

Some time ago Messrs. Hall, Ross & Co., of the Victoria rice and flour mills, sent a communication to the city council informing them that they would lay an asphalt sidewalk in front of their mills if the city would pay them the price of the wooden one. The communication was acknowledged but up to the present nothing definite has been done, and the company is awaiting an answer. During that time the walk in front of the building has been in a bad state.

Will Make a Report.

Mr. M. Sweetman, chief post office inspector, returned east by the Islander this morning. He has made a thorough inspection of the working of the system here, and has taken minute notes of everything requiring alteration or reform. He will embody his recommendations in his report to the department at Ottawa. It is understood that some important changes for the better will be effected in Victoria, particularly as regards the carrier delivery.

On Their Honeymoon.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Black entertained a few friends at dinner at the Poodle Dog hotel, prior to their departure by the City of Kingston on their way to California. Col. Richardson of the K. of P., represented the order, and in a neat speech congratulat- the bride and groom on the step they had taken in life. Other friends also joined in wishing long life and prosperity to the happy pair, and a very pleasant time was had, the newly married folks being seen aboard the steamer a few minutes before her departure, all wishing them bon voyage. Mr. and Mrs. Black will return in about five weeks and will reside in Nanaimo.

A Common Occurrence.

"Scene, Government street. Street car coming—stops. Enter lady, sits down with satchel on her lap. Opens satchel, takes out handkerchief. Shuts satchel and wipes her face with handkerchief; opens satchel and puts back handkerchief. Immediately opens satchel again in a hurry and takes out purse. Shuts satchel and opens purse. Takes out ten cent piece and shuts purse. Opens satchel and puts back purse. Gives conductor ten cent piece and receives five cent piece change. Opens satchel and takes out purse. Shuts satchel and opens purse. Puts five cent piece in and closes purse. Opens satchel and puts back purse; shuts satchel and—"Stop please, conductor."

On Her Trial Trip.

The steamer Chieftan, built by the Albion Iron Works Company, for R. Cunningham & Son, of Skeena, yesterday took a run out of the harbor on her trial trip. She was in charge of Capt. Meyers, and made 9½ knots an hour, although she is expected to make 10½ when her machinery is loosened up. The engines, which are triple expansion, were built by the Albion Iron Works, and were in charge of their foreman, H. Kessler, yesterday. R. Cunningham, owner of the steamer, and a party of friends, went out, but the rain made the excursion a little disagreeable. The Chieftain is about the seventh boat of her size built here this summer, her dimensions being: Length, 80 feet; depth of hold, 9 feet, and width, 16½ feet. She will be used this winter in the towing business, in command of Capt. Noel, but will go north in the spring.

Charter Applied for.

An application has been forwarded from New Wellington, Nanaimo district, for a charter to institute a lodge of the K. of P. in that flourishing settlement. If the charter is granted it will make the fifth one, which will entitle the province to have a grand lodge.

Flooded the Cellar.

The cellar of the Albion Iron Works, in which the electric light plant is kept, was flooded yesterday, and the works had to be shut down at 5 o'clock, as the machinery would not run in the water. Two pumps were put at work during the evening and the place pumped dry. The blocking up of a drain was the cause.

Too Much Rain.

A Westminster correspondent writes that rain has fallen there almost incessant for the last 36 hours and much damage has been sustained through the overflowing of drains, flooding all cellars and excavations. Building operations are at a standstill, and the west end presents much the appearance of a lake with the R.C.P. mills as an island of reputable proportions.

Paper Chase.

On Saturday last a very successful paper chase was held, starting from Stadacona. The run was cross country about ten miles with plenty of fences and ditches; the ladies distinguishing themselves by leading the field. Another meet will be held this coming Saturday, starting from Stadacona, the residence of Major Dupont, at 2:30 p.m. A very sharp and exciting run is anticipated, and that it will be even more successful than the last.

Hard at Work.

During the last few days Rithet's new dredge has been moored off Turpel's ways being tested, but until to-day no good work was done, on account of the stiffness of the engines. This morning, however, the big bucket commenced to go down regularly, and it took only a few dips to fill the large scows used to carry the mud away. Everything worked well, and the steamer Standard is now kept busy taking the scows out to be dumped.

More Wheat.

The schooner Lottie yesterday brought down 30 tons of wheat from Boundary Bay for Hall, Ross & Co., of the Victoria flour mill. This makes the third load of wheat from the river farms, which were supplied with seed by the mill company, besides which a large quantity has been brought in from the Island farms. The sheds are pretty full now, and when the mill is started, about Nov. 1st, they will have enough to keep them going for some time.

Mainland Teachers.

The executive committee of the Mainland's Teacher's Institute met on Saturday afternoon at New Westminster. It was decided to hold sessions on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th of December, at New Westminster. The secretary was instructed to invite the members of the educational department and the ministers of Vancouver and New Wesiminster to be present. During the three days named there will be an exhibition of pupils' work from the various schools. On Tuesday evening, December 23rd, there will be a public entertainment.

Naval Notes.

H. M. S. Espeigle will leave with the Admiral and Flag Captain for a cruise up the Fraser, and likely to the Sound about Thursday.

Chief Carpenter H. Cribb, who was stationed at Esquimalt some years ago, has been granted the rank of lieutenant on retirement.

The appointment of Lieut Vernon B. Webb to the Nymph, for navigating duties, was made on Sept. 26.

The Melpomene arrived at Valparaiso on 25th Sept.

During the naval manœuvres on the coast of Schleswig a new kind of torpedo boat, which was tried by the German squadron, attracted much attention. In external appearance the new vessel differs from other torpedo boats in having two funnels. She can travel at the rate of 26 knots an hour, but cannot carry more than one day's coal when keeping up that speed. The shooting tubes are under water so as to avoid the foam which makes other torpedo boats visible at a great distance. The new boat behaved exceedingly well at the manœuvres, and everything seemed to show that she would render very valuable service in active warfare.

The Vancouver Market

The new market in Vancouver is in operation, and according to the Telegram some of the difficulties usually met with are being encountered at the outset. Our contemporary says: The gardeners come with their teams early in the morning, and go away at 11 o'clock a.m. The fact that the butchers have not yet occupied the stalls, and that many of them keep vegetables for sale at their stands, militates against the market gardeners. They are asking for sheds to be put up, under which they may drive in wet weather, as they say people will not come out and stand in the rain to make their purchases. There also appears to be some misunderstanding about the new ordinance, or perhaps strictly speaking some oversight in the ordinance. It probably was not intended to prohibit a Vancouver gardener from selling elsewhere than at the market house after 11 a.m. the product of his land, or to require him, after paying the market fees, to pay in addition a huckster's license to enable him to do so. This was, it is supposed, only intended to apply to those who peddle fruit and vegetables grown in California, or by other parties. It was to be expected that the new ordinance would in practice disclose some defects, which, however, as they appear, can easily be remedied.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS
OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW,
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

CROSSED WIRES.

A Heavy and Dangerous Current Takes Con-

The fire alarm system was demoralized for a time last night by one of the wires becoming fouled with the city electric light wires. The contact occurred near the corner of Fort and Blanchard streets, and the bells in the alarm system gave two or three taps in consequence. Soon after this a telephone message came into the Deluge engine house, stating that the wires were on fire on Blanchard street. The receiver of the message understood the sender to say that there was a fire there, and a run out was made. It was then found that where the wires crossed, streaks of electricity played from one wire to the other, and it was seen that the main wire running to the electric light pole on Church Hill was against the alarm wire. Chief Deasy sent lineman Watson up to clear the tangle, and also sent a fireman around to the power house on Yates street to ask the engineer to shut down for a few minutes until the trouble could be got over with, as it was not very safe for a man to be up among highly charged wires in a dark and rainy night. Engineer Foster did not seem to be willing to shut down, and told the fireman to go ahead and cut the wires. This was reported to the chief, who went himself and asked Mr. Foster to stop the dynamos for a few minutes as it was dangerous to the life of Lineman Watson to come in contact with live wires, to say nothing of the danger of the heavy current burning out the fire alarm system. It is reported that Engineer Foster told the Chief to go to a locality a considerable distance out of town, and declined to stop.

Electrician McMicking was then communicated with, and after some time the city lights were shut off and the wires put right. To show the strength of the current which was flying over the fire alarm wires, it might be mentioned that when one of the city employees undertook to unlock box 31 he was knocked completly out by the shock he received. Box 31 is in the Deluge engine house, and the man stood on a floor, being partly insulated. Had he been grounded, that is, in direct contact with the earth, the result might have been a deal more serious. The trouble last night shows the need of having the wires of the fire alarm system thoroughly insulated. As they are now, there is danger of burning out the alarms and boxes, the expense to renew, which would be greatly in excess of suitable insulation. It is also very strange that the euginer at the electric light works did not stop when asked to. He surely must be aware of the fact that a 2000 volt current is detrimental to health.

WHARF AND WAVE.

Jottings of Interest to Marine Men Concisely Compiled.

The tug Lorne took a run over to Port Angeles to-day.

Fifty deep water ships are loading at Puget Sound ports this week.

New masts are being placed in the schooner Black Diamond.

The steamer Yosemite was brought into the inner harbor to-day.

The steamer Danube did not leave for the north until early this morning.

The schooner Favorite is loading at the C. P. N. Company's wharves for the west coast.

The steamer Standard will act as a tender to the new dredge this winter, towing the scows of silt out to sea for dumping.

A wooden can buoy has been placed on the rock at the western extremity of Point Reef, northwest end of Moresby Island.

Eight sailors of the German bark Hamburg deserted from their vessel at Burrard Inlet last week, but have been captured by the police.

The British steamer Suffolk, sailing to-day from Port Gamble for England lumber laden, takes 2,500,000, the largest cargo ever loaded on one bottom on the Sound.

A ledge of small extent, with 16 feet of water over it, has been discovered about ½ of a mile W. by N. from Croker Point, west side of Saturna Island. This affects chart 648.

The tug Mamie, which went from Vancouver to Fitzhugh Sound for a boom of logs, about a week ago, has returned. Her long trip made her owners very anxious, but the delay was caused by the late gales, and she had to seek shelter. She brought down a boom of 350,000 feet of logs.

The Alaska trade having developed into considerable importance, it is expected that some lively competition will shortly result. The Pacific Coast Steamship Company has had the monopoly of the trade for a long time, but their hold on it is about to be broken. The steam schooner Signal is advertised to leave Seattle on the 26th inst. for Alaskan ports, carrying freight at 35 per cent. less than the regular rates.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

A. R. Johnson is sufficiently recovered to leave the house.

Sir William Plowden, M. P. for Wolverhampton, England, with Lady Plowden, was a passenger over on the Islander last evening. Their trip is purely one of pleasure, and they were shown Victoria by Mr. Thomas R. Smith. The forenoon was spent at Esquimalt where Sir William and Lady Plowden visited Rear Admiral Hotham and several of the officers of the fleet. In the afternoon they called on His Honor the Lieut.-Governor.

Vacation Ending.

The Supreme Court vacation, which commenced on the 11th of August, will end on Friday next, 24th of October. During this interval of over two months not a single new case has come up, and the officials have consequently got the old ones pretty well settled. The vacation ending so late in the week, no doubt nothing will be done until next week, when lawyers, clerks, judges, etc., expect a busy time.

Esquimalt Echoes.

Work in the Esquimalt naval yard is about closing up for the winter, only very necessary repairs or urgent requirements in connection with the buildings being now undertaken. The addition to the naval hospital is closed in and plastering has been commenced. The building comprises mess rooms, kitchens, sculleries, and hospital service store. It is about 120 feet long. It will be finished shortly and then operations close for the winter season.

Bonilla Point.

Indian Officer Lewis will make another trip to Bonilla Point to-morrow to see the Indian who was shot by Jailer Allen. If he is at all able, and the weather permiting, Officer Lewis will bring him up.

The Dominion Government are going to send a man to Bonilla Point to institute a search for lineman Dubois, who was reported lost last week. He may have turned up by this time, but if he has not when Officer Lewis returns, a man will be sent down.

A Trick of the Trade.

A well known contractor speaking about the payment of contractors and sub-contractors' licenses, said that it was a habit among the smaller jobbers of only taking out taeir licenses when a contract for the municipality is to be tendered for. Just before submitting a tender the license fee is paid, for they know full well that unless it is paid, no notice would be taken of their tender. If the job offered by the city is only a little one, and the contractors do not think it worth while to pay the $10 fee, no tender is submitted by them. These delinquents will, however, have to face the music shortly, for Treasurer Kent has 'em on the list.

Five Drunks.

Rainy weather seems to have a sort of influence on some men, to judge by the docket at the police court this morning, where there were entered the names of five men, everyone of whom had imbibed whisky too heavily. The first one of the five called was an old offender, Peter McLean, who complained that his windpipe was out of order, and that he drank whiskey to relieve the pain. Another made the excuse that he had met an old friend, but his honor would not listen to these stories, and he fined them $5 and $1 costs each. The other three pleaded guilty, but they didn't get off any easier. One of the last three received a severe lecture from his honor for getting drunk. He had neither friends or money in the country and he was sent up for one month with hard labor.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

A PIONEER SOON TO GO.

Salmon's Corner Shortly to be Occupied by a Three-Story Structure.

A [illegible] of old Victoria settlers, who saw the city when it was a place of no consequence whatever, the same influence shows itself on the buildings. Many handsome structures now occupy the places of wooden shanties. Salmon's corner is one of Victoria's old landmarks, but its days are doomed, it must before many months put on a modern garb and come up level with the times.

A party of capitalists contemplate putting up a modern building of three stories and basement on this site next spring. Indeed, the probability is that operations will be commenced this year. Mr. John Teague has in preparation the preliminary plans, but as they are yet in a state of embryo, it is not possible to give any precise details. Arrangements are progressing most favorably however, a large amount of capital is interested, and the venture will be worthy Victoria's progressive spirit.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."
